

Certified Behavioral Health Technician (CBHT)

What does it mean to be certified as a Certified Behavioral Health Technician (CBHT)?

By completing the CBHT program you may seek work as behavioral health technicians, also known as psychiatric technicians, in a variety of settings.

These professionals often work in mental health clinics, inpatient facilities and community counseling services and addiction programs.

Our program helps you obtain the coursework, the certification, and verified experience through our network of facilities and agencies in the mental health and behavioral fields.
